

I would like to ask a few questions about your Model 700 VS Composite rifle. ...

Discussion Thread

Response (Jessica)

2/13/2001 3:32:08 PM

At 02/13/2001 11:34 AM we wrote - Dear Mr. Donoghue, Thank you for your inquiry on the Model 700 VS Composite. The Model 700 VS Composite is only offered in short action calibers (.22-250, .308 win, & .223). This model comes with a hinged floor plate, not a detachable magazine. This firearm has a non-bolt lock safety with the new ISS safety system.

I am sorry to inform you that we do not sell the barreled action seperate, must purchase the complete firearm.

Customer (eoghan o donoghue)

2/10/2001 12:38:59 PM

I would like to ask a few questions about your Model 700 VS Composite rifle.

is it a short or long action?

is there a removable clip, and if so how many rounds of .223 does it take?

where is the safety located, and what type is it?

is it possible to purchase the action and barrel without the stock? and if so how much would it be?

thank you for your answers.

Eoghan O. Donoghue