

is tantamount to refunding the cost. What this sounds like, to me, is Remington's method for providing a defense against future lawsuits by claiming the plaintiff did not take advantage of this offer. I would recommend, however, you have the modification performed if you own one or more of the affected models. In today's legal climate, you might find yourself held "negligent" by failing to do so. - Ed]

Thanks for your email,
We appreciate hearing from you,
Pamela @ Grammys Attic