

Bolt - Safety

Discussion Thread

Response (Chris)

10/30/2003 10:02:45 AM

Dear Mr. Bullins,

Thank you for contacting Remington Country. Models produced since around 1982 have not offered a bolt-lock safety. We feel it is a safer situation for the user to be able to open the bolt and unload with the safety on instead of having to put it on FIRE.

To view our safety message, go to:

http://www.remington.com/Safety\_Modification\_Program/remington\_safety.htm

Customer (Tommy Bullis)

10/30/2003 9:57:54 AM

I own a remington sendero sf 25-06 and I have noticed that when I have my safety on the bolt will still open, should this happen and if it is opened slightly will the round still go off by just closing the bolt back, and if there is any way to get it no to do this by changing the bolt or any other way ?

Thanks

Tommy Bullis