I have a remington 700 7mm that I bought in 1972 and had a gunsmith tell me that there had been a recall years ago because that particular gun was subject to firing sometimes when taking it off safety. I have had that happen 3 times over the years and blamed myself for possibly not cleaning it enough. Gunsmith told me that you have a new trigger that has a couple marks to distinguish them? what do I do? It is at the gunsmiths now.
Thanks, Rick
