

REMINGTON OFFERS CONVENIENT CONSUMER-PACK RELOADING COMPONENTS

Madison, NC For decades, avid handloaders have relied on Remington rifle and pistol reloading components to provide them with quality, consistency, and durability. Whether you are in search of primers, bullets or brass, Remington has made reloading much easier for the consumer by providing a full array of top quality components in convenient small quantity packaging.

Using Remington's award-winning packaging system, reloaders will find it much easier than ever before to purchase and store smaller quantities of brass and bullets. Whether your interests are in the older "classic" cartridges or today's modern designs, like the Remington long and short action Ultra Mag series, 204 Ruger and 6.8mm Remington SPC, Remington has the right components to build that perfect load.

Remington components are well known to be the finest available for top quality handloads. Our stringent manufacturing methods combined with special alloy brass provide superior cases resulting in more reloads, better consistency and increased accuracy.

A great load requires a great bullet. Remington offers rifle shooters the world famous Core-Lokt® hunting bullets and Power-Lokt® varmint bullets. For pistol and revolver shooters all popular bullet styles and weights necessary for practice, competition or personal defense are available. Whatever your shooting discipline, there is a Remington bullet style to meet your needs.

Remington Consumer-Pack components offer 100 piece rifle and pistol bullets, 100 piece pistol and revolver unprimed brass, and 50 and 100 piece unprimed rifle brass.
