Remington Announces Two Additions to Collectible Knife Series

Madison, NC — Continuing the tradition of our limited edition knife series, Remington is pleased to announce the 2003 Bullet® Knife and 2002 Wildlife Knife. These exceptional, limited production knives are classically styled, highly collectible and are made in the USA.

The 2003 Bullet Knife — "The Pioneer" features a 2 3/4-inch clip blade and 2 3/4-inch spey blade, constructed of 440 stainless steel in the traditional R1178C, trapper style design. The blades are housed in a brass hating and feature the Remington® trademark etch and contemporary Remington tang stamp. Complimenting the handsome cocobolo wood handles are the traditional Remington nickel-silver bullet shield and stainless steel bolsters and brass pins. Measuring 3 1/2-inches closed, "The Pioneer" joins a full series of Bullet knives dating back to 1982.

The 2002 Wildlife Knife — "Coming In To Feed" is the seventh in this series of annual knives that feature paintings from the Remington Art Collection etched on the blade. This well-designed, 3 3/4-inch canoe style knife has vintage bone handles and features a 3-inch drop point and 2 1/4-inch spear blade with contemporary Remington tang stamp. Adding to this collectible's distinct look is the round Remington Shield on the face side and stainless bolsters and pins. The 2002 Wildlife Knife comes packaged in a two-piece, designer display box and this limited production offering is numbered from one to 1500.

These two uniquely designed knives join a long-standing list of fine, high quality Remington limited edition collectibles.
