Dear Mr. Smith,

Thank you for your inquiry. According to the serial number provided, there has not been a recall on this rifle.

We do have a Safety Modification Program on certain model bolt action rifles. This is a voluntary program, it is not a recall. This is designed to remind people of the existence of the bolt-lock feature and to offer customers the opportunity to modernize their products. If you have a bolt lock safety, we strongly recommend that you take advantage of this offer.

You can read more information regarding our firearms and our Safety Modification program through the front page of our website or the link below:

The safe use and performance of your firearm depends on correct assembly and routine maintenance, as well as adherence to the "10 Commandments of Firearm Safety." <http://www.remington.com/support/10comm.htm> It is critical that you familiarize yourself with the information in both the owners manual and safety booklet. Whether you are a veteran shooter with a collection of Remington firearms, or a first time shooter, take the time to review this important literature and be certain that you are practicing firearm safety!

Not sure if the above is the serial number.

Question, I understand some of these firearms are prone to firing with the safety on. I further understand there is a fix for these firearms.

From talking with my fellow sportsman, I understand not all 7MM are prone to this malfunction. It depends upon the manufacture date, i.e. serial number range. Are you able to determine with the above information if this weapon is safe. The rifle belonged to my deceased father, and I know he never had a problem with the weapon after many years of hunting.

Thank you:

Dwayne A. Smith
