Dear Don,
Thank you for your inquiry. For older model firearms, our records only indicate the date of manufacture, not the specific details about each model. According to the serial number provided, this firearm was manufactured in or around 1973. We want to make you aware of a Safety Modification Program that we are having on certain model bolt action rifles. This is a voluntary program, it is not a recall. This is designed to remind people of the existence of the bolt-lock feature and to offer customers the opportunity to modernize their products. If you have a bolt lock safety, we strongly recommend that you take advantage of this offer.

You can read more information regarding our firearms and our Safety Modification program through the front page of our website or the link below:

http://www.remington.com/safety_modification_program/remington_safety.htm

The safe use and performance of your firearm depends on correct assembly and routine maintenance, as well as adherence to the "10 Commandments of Firearm Safety." <http://www.remington.com/support/10comm.htm> It is critical that you familiarize yourself with the information in both the owners manual and safety booklet. Whether you are a veteran shooter with a collection of Remington firearms, or a first time shooter, take the time to review this important literature and be certain that you are practicing firearm safety!

Sir,
I inherited a Model 700 BDL from my Grandfather when he passed. The serial is 6583625. I was wondering if you could tell me exactly what I have, as in year it was made, whether or not it was a special edition. I would not part with to save my life, but would like to know what exactly it is. I can tell you it is ACCURATE. The rifle has taken over twenty white tails and more wild hogs than I can count just in the last two years. Thank you, Don Hendricks
