Dear Mr. Smith,

Thank you for contacting Remington Country. We can check to see if your Model 700 is under recall by the serial number. You can take the firearm to our factory for inspection and conversion from the bolt-lock style safety to non-bolt-lock, so that you can open the bolt with the safety still on. You will need to leave the firearm at the factory and we can either notify you when it is ready for pick-up or we can ship it to you. For more information on the Model 700 Conversion, go to:

I understand that some Model 700 Bolt action rifles have been recalled . I have one purchased in 1970. Can I bring it to your Ilion Plant for repair?
