Thank you for contacting Remington Country. Your Model 700 was produced in 1974. Your firearm has not been involved in a recall. Your rifle was originally installed with a bolt-lock, which means you have to put the safety switch on fire before you can open the bolt. We are offering a conversion at a special price if you would like your firearm converted, so that you can open the bolt at anytime with the safety on safe. My brother, who does not have internet access, asked if I could ask the following: He recently purchased a Remington 30-06, Model 700, Serial number 6792499. The gun is in excellent condition and he was told, has not been fired in about 20 years. The previous owner told him that there was possibly a recall on this weapon from the manufacture. Before he actually goes out and fires the weapon he would like to know for sure; for his own safety and others that might be around him. Can you help him out?
