To elaborate on problem: Gun is loaded and safety is set, target appears, release safety, gun will not fire, point gun in the air and jiggle safety release, gun will eventually fire but you don't know when. At times safety release will lock up and the only way you can free it up is to re-cock the bolt. I have had the rifle at the gunsmiths twice and he says I'm not cleaning it right. He cleaned the gun last year and I did not attempt to fire until opening day of deer season this year. I had the biggest 10 point buck I have ever had a chance to kill and gun would not fire. This makes the third deer season that my gun would not fire properly. Somone told me that sometime in the past Remington had a recall for similar problems with 270 cal.rifles. Could this be the same problem.
